

Gasoline Rationed Tuesday

Farmers And War Workers Will Have Enough To Meet Needs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Farmers and war workers will be allowed necessary gasoline to meet their needs, Rubber Administrator William M. Jeffers told senate investigators today in reiterating that immediate nationwide rationing was "an absolute necessity."

Jeffers went to Capitol Hill backed by President Roosevelt's order of yesterday that nationwide gasoline rationing should go into effect Dec. 1 to conserve rubber, despite protests from congress members.

Testifying before the special senate defense investigating committee, Jeffers disclosed he had asked Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Transportation Director Joseph Eastman to make changes in the rationing program for farmers and war workers.

"I suggested to Mr. Eastman that farmers and stockmen generally have a very necessary use for trucks and that pending ironing out of local difficulties they should be given to understand that they are to continue their normal operations until such time as their individual needs are determined."

Individual Needs

In the case of war workers, he said in a memorandum that rationing boards should be governed by recommendations of management-labor boards set up to determine individual needs of the men.

"If there are any disputes," he asserted, they will be resolved in such a way as "to preclude the possibility of there being any difficulty in people generally going about their activities without interference, until the matter can be straightened out."

With no new rubber available, Jeffers testified, "we face the absolute necessity of the rationing program, which will enable us to continue essential driving through the fall of 1943 and spring of 1944."

"It's" In Rubber Production

Jeffers said the production of synthetic rubber was clouded by "it's" including a big "it" in regard to "the success of the processes and the size and continuity of output."

He added: "While all the experiments are good, and the outlook is reasonably bright, I deem it plain common sense at a time like this to err on the side of conservatism."

President Roosevelt's order left congressional opponents of rationing with the alternative of giving up the fight or carrying it to the floor of congress.

Baruch Report Tells Story

Jeffers testified that if all the nation's motorists would read the Baruch rubber report "I don't think any sort of pressure would change their minds" as to the necessity for rationing.

His statement was echoed by Price Administrator Leon Henderson, who asserted objections to the program in some localities indicated "propaganda work."

Jeffers told the committee that transportation director, Joseph Eastman thought the county agricultural agent in each county should make final determination of the gasoline needs of the farmers and stockmen in his locality.

"The farmer is the most important individual in America in this war effort, not even excepting a member of the armed forces," he continued, "Nothing will be done to interfere with his doing his job."

Jeffers promised Chairman Truman (D-Mo) that he would make allowances for the west and middle west where he was aware that it was necessary to travel greater distances for essential purposes than in the east.

Most opposition to rationing has come from farm and oil state members of congress.

Action On Two Bills Before Adjournment

Bill Goes Back To Senate For Changes

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The house spurned the senate's $2,890,000 old age pension today and sent it back with a demand for more money.

The vote—98 to 14 against the senate figure—probably meant the bill would go to a conference committee of both houses where differences could stymie the legislature's Saturday adjournment drive.

Minutes later the house tabled a resolution which would have adjourned the session at noon tomorrow.

"I know we're not going to adjourn tomorrow," said Rep. E. J. Hogan (D) St. Louis, "and I'm getting tired of sitting around here with the clocks stopped and working without pay."

Killing the resolution did not mean the legislature would necessarily go beyond tomorrow, however. Agreement on the pension bill and one other controversy could wind up the session in rapid order. Many members still thought the final gavel would fall before the week's end.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Only two bills—one of them a multi-million dollar old age pension grant—stood between the legislature and sine die adjournment at noon today.

Working smoothly, the house quickly agreed to senate changes and finally passed four bills during a busy morning session. They now go to the governor.

The first hitch came at noon when the chamber took up a senate-reduced appropriation for tuberculosis hospitals in St. Louis and Kansas City. Metropolitan members of the house objected to the senate cuts which peeled almost a million dollars from the original house bill.

After sharp debate the chamber rejected the senate changes and sent the bill toward a conference committee review by both branches.

The house had boomed the bill well over a million dollars to pay the state's share of caring for patients in Deeds hospital, Kansas City, and Koch hospital and the City Sanitarium in St. Louis. The house bill would have taken care of all the unpaid claims which were based on a law granting the hospitals $12.50 weekly for

Former Sedalian Only Survivor Of Plane Attacked

Wilbur Pugh, 26, reported by the navy as injured in action October 23, is the only survivor of a plane attacked by two Japanese fighters, northeast of the Solomon Islands, according to a letter received today by his grandmother, Mrs. William Owens, 1803 South Ohio avenue.

He states he is in a government hospital, someplace in the southwest Pacific, getting along satisfactorily.

According to his letter to his grandmother he and seven other Americans were on patrol duty when they contacted the two Japanese fighters, and his plane was shot down. In the crash he was thrown from his position in the nose of the plane. One leg was broken in two places and his right shoulder was dislocated.

He floated in the water, he writes, for an hour, when he was rescued by another American plane. All of his companions perished.

Pugh is a brother of Mrs. Gordon Strain, 1233 East Broadway. His wife and two children are living in Pensacola, Fla., for the duration.

Something To Be Thankful For

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 26.—(Delayed)—(P)—Thanksgiving was just another fighting day for Americans in the battle for New Guinea in the air and on the ground, but four P-40 pilots have just a little extra for which to be thankful.

Flying patrols this morning over the Buna area, they were jumped by eight Zeros which dropped from the clouds 10,000 feet or more above them in vertical dives.

When the brief engagement was over three Zeros had been shot down, two others had been damaged probably fatally and all the P-40s were safe and intact.

The pilots were: Lieut. Earl Kingsley of Clinton, Ark., Bruce Harris of Columbus, S. C., Warren Blakely of Colorado Springs, Colo., and John Porteous of Portland, Me.

Upon their return to the base, Harris and Porteous said they would like to have a little turkey, but admitted this show would make their bully beef taste as good.

Automobile Tires Made From Apples

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 27.—(AP)—L. F. Holt, 64-year-old Wenatchee, Wash., cafe chef, thinks Mrs. Roosevelt would be interested in his collection of apple recipes—367 in all, one for each day in the year and two over for leap year and a victory day.

He's on the way to Washington to enlighten her on a few of the 7,800 ways he's found to prepare apples. Mrs. Roosevelt, he says, is expecting him.

Holt said among the varied uses for apples was the manufacture of automobile tires. He didn't explain.

Requisitioned Train Equipment

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(P)—Germany has requisitioned more than 1,000 locomotives, 800 passenger coaches and 40,000 freight cars from French railway lines in recent months, Secretary B. S. Townroe of the United Association of Great Britain and France told his organization today.

Sedalians Thank God For All Blessings

Large Congregation At Union Services Thursday Morning

An exceptionally large congregation attended the union Thanksgiving service held at 9 o'clock Thursday morning at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed church with the thirteen churches of the Ministerial Alliance participating.

The Rev. R. W. Leazer, pastor of the First Baptist church, delivering a sermon on the subject, "Remembering God's Benefits," commented that this is the first time the United States has observed Thanksgiving during wartime for 25 years, and gave a brief review of conditions which exist.

Enumerating the blessings God has bestowed on this nation, Rev. Leazer emphasized that we have freedom of worship which millions elsewhere are forbidden to enjoy. "We have the freedom of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, and the freedom to die for those freedoms," he said.

Thank God For Blessings

"Every man, woman and child should offer thanks unto God for in Him we live and move and have our being. Life itself comes from God. And at the beginning of every prayer we should give thanks, preceding our supplication for further blessings."

Rev. Leazer continued, "as we confront an arduous task we give thanks for the promised help now and in the rebuilding of the walls of a Christian civilization after this war is over," he declared in the closing part of his sermon.

The choir of the host church sang and the Rev. O. J. Rumpf was the liturgist.

The offering of the morning was shared by the Melita Day Nursery and the Ministerial Alliance.

Allied Spearheads 15 Miles From Tunis, Clash With Axis

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(P)—Allied spearheads were reported today to have lanced to a point 15 miles from Tunis and to have clashed with axis forces at Mateur, a communications junction 25 miles south of Bizerte, in an effort to drive a wedge between the fortified capital and the naval base of Tunisia.

Both developments were announced in a Berlin radio broadcast.

The position of the task force striking at Tunis was not stated, but an allied communique earlier announced that British first army troops, striking northeastward, had captured Mejez El Bab, 30 miles southwest of Tunis, over stiff resistance and were "advancing successfully."

Mateur lies athwart the railway line and one of two highways between Tunis and Bizerte, in which Hitler has concentrated the majority of German and Italian troops in Tunisia. London commentators estimate their numbers at 20,000. It is 40 miles northwest of the capital. Eastward, toward the Mediterranean coast, runs another highway between Bizerte and Tunis.

Part of French Fleet Scuttled; Russian Offensive Strengthens

Fleeing Germans Frustrated; Reds Capture Dozens Of Planes On One Field

BULLETIN

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(P)—Reuters said the Algiers radio broadcast tonight that the British First Army has opened a "big offensive" in Tunisia.

The veteran First Army under British Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson has been pressing eastward with an American mobile force.

"The period of patrol activity is finished," the radio said.

"The First Army has left its defense positions for the big offensive."

MOSCOW, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Danger deepened hourly for Hitler's battered spearhead at Stalingrad today, the latest battle dispatches indicated, as fresh strength poured into the aggressive Red Army garrison over a newly won land route and fast-wheeling field columns cut across the besiegers' lifelines to the west.

A confused war of movement swirled across the broad steppes west of Stalingrad and it was impossible to define battle lines clearly, but overnight dispatches said that in some places the Red offensive gained such momentum that fleeing Germans were frustrated in efforts to burn warplanes on fields overwhelmed too swiftly to permit takeoffs.

Dozens of planes were reported captured undamaged at one airfield in a sector described only as hilly.

Overnight reports pushed to 115,600, the number of axis soldiers said to have been killed or captured in the nine-day-old drive, with possibly another 150,000 wounded.

(The German radio not only acknowledged the Russians remained on the offensive around Stalingrad but explained earlier reports of a major Soviet drive developing west of Rzhev some 600 miles to the north.

Berlin Acknowledges Attacks

(Latest Berlin broadcasts told of Russian attacks in the Velikie Luki region, 265 miles west of Moscow and only 100 miles from the Latvian border. The broadcasts said massive Soviet tank forces had achieved a fairly deep penetration northwest of Moscow.

(The Russian communiques only spoke of artillery activity on the northwestern front and no mention has been made of an offensive there but the German reports indicated that the Red army might be striking out on an even greater scale than it did last winter when it threw the Germans back from the gates of Moscow.)

Details were lacking, but in broad outline the picture sketched by front lines dispatches showed the estimated 300,000 survivors of the axis legions that have attacked Stalingrad for three months were beset by fresh perils on two sides.

To the east the Russian garrison of Stalingrad was strengthened by supplies and reinforcements run down the west bank of the Volga — for the first time since early in the siege — and behind

French Destroy And Burn Fleet Before Germans Can Take It

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(P)—The great naval harbor of Toulon, where, according to Vichy accounts, the French fleet was scuttled, is a "scene of utter desolation with all the magnificent ships of the French navy lying on their sides and with dense clouds of smoke rising from them," said a Vichy broadcast today that was recorded by Reuters News Agency.

(The Germans said part of the fleet was scuttled.)

"The maritime prefecture, the postoffice and the town hall fell quickly into the hands of the German troops who swarmed in through the windows from ladders placed against the walls," said the radio account.

"A column of German tanks and armored cars entered the arsenal by the Castigneau gate and dashed full speed to the Milhaud docks, where the battleship Strasbourg was moored.

"Another German motorized column brought soldiers armed with tommy guns to the Vauban basin, in which the battleship Dunkerque was undergoing repairs and in front of which the cruisers Foch, Algeria, Duquesne and Jean de Vienne, together with a number of light cruisers, destroyers and corvettes were moored.

"A sudden explosion rent the air. It came from the Strasbourg, which had just scuttled itself. Explosion after explosion followed as all other ships in the harbor and the French coastal batteries blew themselves up.

"On some ships preparations for the scuttling were not quite ready so the sailors opened fire on the Germans to keep them off until the explosions wrecked the ships.

"There were many casualties both among the defenders and the scuttling crews who sacrificed their lives to prevent the ships from falling into the hands of the Germans.

"All captains stood on the bridge until their ships sank. Most of them lost their lives.

French Prisoners Calm

"The town echoed to the rattle of German lorries carrying French prisoners who maintained a calm and dignified front while their captors stood over them with fixed bayonets.

"Even after daybreak the noise of the explosions continued as isolated small ships blew themselves up, while massive roars from munition dumps and oil tanks at some distance from the docks added their quota to the wreckage.

"There was absolutely nothing left of the complicated and precious material stored in the naval arsenal.

"In the early afternoon" the mayor of Toulon issued an order for the closing of all cinemas, theatres and public places at 10 p. m. although no restriction had been placed on the movements of the population in the streets."

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 27.—(P)—Representatives of three Missouri schools — winners in the recent scrap drive — were selected today to dedicate a Missouri liberty ship in Houston, Tex., Jan. ninth.

The ship probably will be named "Mark Twain," the title most frequently suggested in a recent name poll.

The students will be chaperoned to Houston by Mrs. Lillian L. Denny principal of the Paradise school in Clay county. Student representatives will be Robert W. Arthur of Paradise, Robert Leslie Wharton of the Elm Branch school in Pettis county, and Leroy Loessing of the Hyatt school in St. Louis county.

State Superintendent Lloyd W. King estimated today Missouri school children collected 30,000 tons of salvage during a three-weeks scrap drive last month.

Robert Leslie Wharton, who has been selected to represent Elm Branch school of Pettis county is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Wharton, Windsor, route 5 and was twelve years old Nov. 11. He is in the sixth grade.

Elmer Lee Miers, teacher of Elm Branch, and Mrs. Miers plan to accompany the boy on the trip paying their own expenses.

Elm Branch collected 32,000 pounds of scrap during the drive.

Same License Number On Car Next Year

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 27.—(P)—Don't worry about 1943 when you write your 1942 auto tag number on your gasoline ration book — you'll have the same number next year anyway.

Missouri's 1943 tags will be a green and white metal strip nine inches long and an inch and a half wide attached to this year's license plate. The strip will bear the legend "Mo. 1943" and a serial number. The latter will not necessarily agree with your 1942 number — but they'll be there anyway because the strip must be attached to a 1942 tag.

The reduced size of the tags was made necessary by the war-induced steel shortage.

Inquiry Into Five Year Old's Death

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 27.—(P)—Dissatisfied with developments in their investigation of the death of five-year-old William Meadows, Columbia police officers planned to hold an inquest today.

The boy's frozen body was found Thanksgiving day in a puddle at a Columbia street intersection. He had been missing since late Wednesday.

Police Chief George Quinn continued to hold a 12-year-old boy who said he "bounced William on the ground a few times" in an argument and then rode off on his bicycle, leaving the Meadows child lying on the ground.

William was a twin son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Meadows.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(P)—

The Vichy radio went off the air at 7:30 p. m. (2:30 p. m. E. W. T.) today, 15 minutes after announcing that it no longer could guarantee transmissions "because of events."

Earlier in the evening it had broadcast a colorful account of the scuttling of the French fleet in Toulon harbor.

VICHY (From French broadcasts), Nov. 27.—(P)—The cabinet deprived Admiral Jean Darlan and General Henri Honore Giraud of their French nationality today.

The action was taken at the first cabinet session presided over by Pierre Laval since he was given full powers by Marshal Petain.

Afterward Laval read Adolf Hitler's letter to the Marshal announcing the German move into Toulon.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(P)—The navy announced today that army and marine corps troops on Guadalcanal island spent Thanksgiving day in "mopping up isolated enemy patrols" while the Japanese made an early-morning attack with two bombers but caused no damage.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(P)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard issued an order today releasing farm machinery and equipment held by dealers to permit such supplies to be rationed among farmers by county farm rationing committees. The order becomes effective tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(P)—Twelve of 14 soldiers aboard an army transport plane forced into a landing seven miles northwest of here last night were brought to a St. Joseph hospital for treatment.

Axis Forces Occupy Toulon In Violation Of Hitler's Promise; Vichy Aids Fleet

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(P)—French sailors scuttled their proud fleet in the Mediterranean harbor of Toulon at dawn today, the Vichy radio announced. French captains went down with their ships and French crews fought off German boarding parties as Adolf Hitler, moved in and occupied the naval base, the last bit of heretofore unoccupied France.

The battleships Duplex and Strasbourg and the cruisers Foch, Algeria, Duquesne and Jean de Vienne were among the ships rent by mighty explosions as German motorized columns poured through the streets of Toulon and Nazi soldiers swarmed through windows of strategic buildings in an apparent effort to seize the base and perhaps the fleet by surprise.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler has ordered all French naval and army forces to be demobilized immediately and has placed Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt in supreme charge in France, the Vichy radio said today, quoting the fuhrer's notification of these decisions to Marshal Petain.

The Vichy station broadcast this excerpt from the letter in which Hitler notified the French chief of state of his decision to occupy Toulon:

"On Nov. 12, 1942, orders were given by French authorities to the defenses at Toulon not to open fire in the event of an Anglo-American landing in this town.

"Existence of this order has been proved. I have given orders that all naval and army units of French forces be immediately demobilized.

"Marshall von Rundstedt will be in charge of all measures deemed necessary and will take all decisions in French territory."

Orders Demobilized All French naval and armed forces were demobilized by Hitler's order. The armistice of 1940 had allowed France an army of 80,000 men.

The communique contained only the line that "part of the French fleet has scuttled itself" and it was not known which or how many of the 62 French war vessels—including three battleships—of France's Mediterranean fleet were at the bottom of Toulon harbor.

The order to enter Toulon was given by the Axis war leaders last night "to prevent the French fleet from putting to sea as planned and to demobilize unsecured contingents of the French army," it said.

Thus, with one stroke every trace of French sovereignty was erased—no acre of her homeland was left free of the invader, she

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON
(Major Robert S. Allen on active duty)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—What the $25,000 ceiling on salaries is doing to both Democratic and Republican parties, especially the former, is something which makes the politicians weep. If the ceiling stays on for more than two years it will reduce the campaign funds to $5 and $10 contributions from the rank and file — which in the end may be a good thing. Most people don't know it, but one way corporations got around the ban on making gifts to a political party was to pay their president an extra large salary. Then he made the contribution personally. Thus if he got a salary of $175,000, about $50,000 might go to campaign funds or lobbying fees.

But now his salary is scaled to $25,000. Furthermore, political contributions are not deductible from income taxes.

The Republicans are in better shape than the Democrats because more of their big money boys come from groups which built up fortunes in the past and are living on investments. And unearned incomes have no $25,000 limit.

As a result of this financial debacle, the Democratic national committee has dismissed 70 to 80 per cent of its staff, has given up its palatial quarters in the Mayflower hotel except for a few small rooms. Charley Nicholson, veteran Democratic publicity genius, whose salary long ago was fixed at $20,000, was quietly retired after 15 years of service. There is not enough money to pay him.

Jap Planes Deteriorate
U. S. experts now report that the Japs no longer are giving a first rate performance in the air. Something seems to have gone wrong. They are less formidable than at the start of the war.

This is evident in two ways, both highly significant for the future. First, Jap pilots are not so good as they were, indicating a lot of pilots killed and a fault in the Japanese air training program. Second, the numbers of planes are definitely smaller, indicating production difficulties.

To the experts looking not only at the day-by-day action but at the long range trends, these factors are strongly heartening.

Kennedy, ex-ambassador to England, who did a remarkable job in whipping the securities and exchange commission into shape. . . .

More Rationing
The American consumer doesn't know it yet, but he will suffer far more as a result of the war than merely curtailment of such things as typewriters, refrigerators, automobiles, tires, butter and coffee.

Looming ahead is another shortage, created not by materials but by manpower. WPB officials are preparing to break the news to the public, that as a result of the tremendous drain on manpower, articles and services we take for granted today will not be available a year or 18 months from now.

No Good-Will Promises
On his record trip to Brazil, Nelson Rockefeller visited a bath tub plant in the city of Sao Paulo. Later in the same day he addressed a group of industrialists who demanded more materials from the U. S. A.

The young coordinator handed out no suave talk, made no empty promises. Instead, he said: "I have four brothers in the service, and I am not going to advocate diverting materials from equipping our soldiers, so that you may have it to build more bathtubs. No — not until you convert the bathtub plant to a plant for making more gasengines!" Rockefeller was referring to the machines Brazilians use in lieu of gasoline. They are wood burning stoves, attached to the rear of a car, which produce a combustible gas, as a substitute for gasoline.

No country in Latin America has been so severely hit as Brazil by lack of gasoline.

Police Chief Alvin Reusch of Zion said the baby was recovered from Mrs. Anne Tyrrell, 29, in Zion and she admitted taking the baby. She was brought to Waukegan for questioning by State's Attorney Harry A. Hall and Chief of Police Bart Tyrrell of Waukegan.

Chief Tyrrell, who said the woman held spelled her name like his but was no relation, said she gave this explanation for her action:

She heard the child crying, picked him up to comfort him, walked a few steps, then a block with him and, finally, accepted a ride in an automobile and went on to Zion.

Chief Tyrrell said Mrs. Tyrrell also told him she had wanted a baby and had lost two. Chief Reusch's announcement that the baby had been found ended a search that aroused the North shore area.

The chief said he saw Mrs. Tyrrell in a car that was leaving the home of a relative. Attracted by her resemblance to the woman sought in the case, he questioned her. He reported that he saw the gladstone bag, opened it and beheld the infant.

He related that Mrs. Tyrrell claimed she was the mother of the child, but later admitted that she took the baby from the buggy in front of a Waukegan store at 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

The chief said she failed to give a logical explanation of her motive. She was held without charge and turned over to Waukegan officials.

The baby disappeared from his buggy while his mother, Mrs. Stewart Bothford, wife of a commercial artist, was shopping. A hunt developed. Police, sheriff's officers and civilian defense volunteers enlisted. A clue was furnished by a taxi cab driver who told investigators he transported a woman and a baby from Waukegan to Zion, five miles to the north, late yesterday. The woman was circled among the police of the district and this led to recovery of the child.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago
A real Thanksgiving was provided for an aged couple in Sedalia who are sick and destitute, when a needed fund of $75 to send them to a son in California was oversubscribed. After the presentation of their pitiful case in the Democrat Wednesday contributions ranging from twenty-five cents to $5 poured in and the total today reached $109.80. The money over the $75 for transportation will be used for clothes and other necessities for the old couple. When the Thanksgiving donation was taken to them Thursday the old lady wept tears of joy and neither she nor her husband, both of whom are near 80, could command language to adequately express their thoughts to the good people who have made it possible for them to spend their few remaining days under the roof of a loved son.

In a runaway accident today an express wagon, to which a double team was hitched, overturned hurling the eight occupants into the street. The horses took fright at Seventh and Ohio streets and after the wagon upset in front of the courthouse the frightened steeds galloped on to Second street turning west, and were caught on that thoroughfare. The tongue was broken from the wagon. The passengers in the wagon were en route to the Missouri Pacific depot.

Police Chief Alvin Reusch of Zion said the baby was recovered from Mrs. Anne Tyrrell, 29, in Zion and she admitted taking the baby. She was brought to Waukegan for questioning by State's Attorney Harry A. Hall and Chief of Police Bart Tyrrell of Waukegan.

Chief Tyrrell, who said the woman held spelled her name like his but was no relation, said she gave this explanation for her action:

She heard the child crying, picked him up to comfort him, walked a few steps, then a block with him and, finally, accepted a ride in an automobile and went on to Zion.

Chief Tyrrell said Mrs. Tyrrell also told him she had wanted a baby and had lost two. Chief Reusch's announcement that the baby had been found ended a search that aroused the North shore area.

The chief said he saw Mrs. Tyrrell in a car that was leaving the home of a relative. Attracted by her resemblance to the woman sought in the case, he questioned her. He reported that he saw the gladstone bag, opened it and beheld the infant.

He related that Mrs. Tyrrell claimed she was the mother of the child, but later admitted that she took the baby from the buggy in front of a Waukegan store at 3:30 p. m. yesterday.

The chief said she failed to give a logical explanation of her motive. She was held without charge and turned over to Waukegan officials.

The baby disappeared from his buggy while his mother, Mrs. Stewart Bothford, wife of a commercial artist, was shopping. A hunt developed. Police, sheriff's officers and civilian defense volunteers enlisted. A clue was furnished by a taxi cab driver who told investigators he transported a woman and a baby from Waukegan to Zion, five miles to the north, late yesterday. The woman was circled among the police of the district and this led to recovery of the child.

The Big Noise In Italy

Find Baby In Traveling Bag

WAUKEGON, Ill., Nov. 27—(P)—Four months old Gary Bothford was found Wednesday, alive and well in nearby Zion, less than 24 hours after he was snatched from his buggy in downtown Waukegan.

Tucked in a traveling bag, the child was brought at once to Waukegan and restored to his weary parents, young Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Bothford, who put him to bed and presently reported he was sleeping peacefully in his crib.

Police Chief Alvin Reusch of Zion said the baby was recovered from Mrs. Anne Tyrrell, 29, in Zion and she admitted taking the baby. She was brought to Waukegan for questioning by State's Attorney Harry A. Hall and Chief of Police Bart Tyrrell of Waukegan.

Chief Tyrrell, who said the woman held spelled her name like his but was no relation, said she gave this explanation for her action:

Express Men Are Very Busy

Despite wartime conditions and their effect on transportation, Christmas traffic this year is not expected to fall much below that of 1941. W. J. Mathias, local agent of Railway Express Agency, said today.

Retail stores in Sedalia are well stocked for the holidays, due to long range planning. A considerable part of the goods offered are no longer being manufactured and as replacements will not always be possible, late shoppers may find little left to buy, according to Mr. Mathias.

While they are extremely busy with war business, express employees will bend every effort to provide their usual holiday service and will remain on the job on the 25th, to handle late deliveries. "Besides urging early shipping," said Mr. Mathias, "we are asking the public to cooperate in other directions. Holiday gifts should be very carefully packed, with due consideration for the nature of the contents. If such shipments are fragile, that word should be plainly marked on the outside. Complete and legible addressing, including street and number in the recipient's address, is another vital factor in assuring good delivery."

Calls for holiday shipments will be made as heretofore, but under limitations set by government authorities. Thus, some one should always be at home or in the office to send or receive packages, since a second call is not permitted at the same address on the same day. Reduced mileage requirements also necessitate less frequent calls.

Although the service is extensively used for war purposes, Air Express is still available to the public for highspeed movement of holiday shipments. Even though the shipper may be located at an "off airline point," combination air-rail service still makes it possible for him to have packages delivered overnight at destinations as far as 2,500 miles away.

To assist Christmas shoppers, the local express office has received a supply of colorful holiday package address labels, which may be obtained without charge, on request.

became subject to absolute Nazi rule, even her meager means of self defense were made impotent—as Hitler tried to defend his Nazi Europe from the threat of invasion across the Mediterranean and of insurrection against his mastery.

Hitler Writes Petain

"I am determined not to, in any case, give Europe over the chaos by allowing a free hand to these agitators," Hitler wrote Petain apparently meaning his opponents generally and the Fighting French and anti-Axis Vichy French especially.

"I sincerely hope it will be possible to give back to France an army whose officers at least obey the chief of state.

"I am convinced you took no part in any of these activities, but I am compelled to carry this war through to the end."

Brig. Gen. Duncan Down At Sea

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Brigadier General Asa N. Duncan, chief of air staff in the European theater has been forced down at sea and is missing in action.

The War Department reported that General Duncan, 50, was forced down while flying from England to North Africa on November 17. His plane went into the sea off the northern coast of France. No information, the department said, has been received as to whether any of the personnel in the plane survived.

Duncan, a command pilot and combat observer, was made chief of air staff in the European theater last July. He is the second general of the army air forces listed as missing in action. Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker has been missing since he flew out to bomb the Japanese fleet approaching Midway island last June. Two other generals, Maj. Gen. Herbert A. Dargue and Brig. Gen. Harold H. George, have been killed in airplane accidents since the war started.

Gen. Duncan's wife lives at Montgomery, Ala. He was born at Leighton, Ala., March 30, 1892. His first military service was as an enlisted man in the Alabama military guard on duty on the Mexican border in 1917.

Grain Prices Up Then Down Again

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—After advancing fractions to more than a cent a bushel, with rye in the lead, grain prices today backed down late in the session as a result of liquidation of December contracts, which became deliverable next Tuesday. In some cases small losses were posted. The market's early strength reflected mild demand for wheat, with a substantial quality sold for eastern shipment. Reports of additional chain bakers inquiry for flour and short covering in the rye pit, which brokers said may have been stimulated by hope that exports may be possible as a result of war developments, also caused early strength.

BEER IN ARMY CAMPS PROMOTES TEMPERANCE

OPPOSING the "dry" amendment to the recent draft law, the Secretary of War declared: "The army has obtained marked results in its program to build morale and character... Temperance among soldiers is obtained by practical and tolerant measures, from education, supervision and restriction rather than from flat prohibition... The sale of beer on the military reservations during restricted periods in our belief facilitates self-control and discourages excesses."

Woman Prepares For Execution

LAKE CHARLES, LA., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Calm and apparently unafraid Mrs. Annie Beatrice (Toni) Henry, convicted and self confessed slayer, awaited execution in Louisiana's portable electric chair here at noon tomorrow.

Deputy Sheriff Gibbs Duhan said Mrs. Henry, convicted of the killing of Joseph P. Calloway, of Houston, Texas, salesman in a frozen rice field near here in February, 1940, slept late Thanksgiving morning and apparently enjoyed the wild duck and dressing which was on the Calcasieu parish prison's menu.

Deputy Duhan said the condemned woman had refused to read newspapers and had turned to the radio for entertainment. Reading her Bible has been her main solace.

Dubbed a "tigress" during her three murder trials, the woman has been a model prisoner, Duhan said, and has not suffered a day's illness since her imprisonment 33 months ago.

Mrs. Henry, a self styled "prostitute at 13, and dope fiend at 16," in a signed confession admitted she fired the fatal shots after she and a companion, Finnon Burks, had forced Calloway out of his car into the rice field where he was stripped and killed as he knelt begging for his life. Burks also is under death sentence but the date of execution has not been set.

The state supreme court twice granted Mrs. Henry new trials on grounds of prejudicial conduct in the lower court but her third conviction was upheld.

Governor Sam Jones has declared he will not interfere and there were no apparent legal moves open to her.

Mrs. Henry will be the first woman to be electrocuted in the state and the second white woman to die for murder.

Action On Two Bills Before Adjournment

Senate Sliced Bill

But the senate sliced the bill $903,750 when it took $242,000 off the Leeds appropriation and $661,750 away from Koch.

"It would be cheaper for the state to pay this bill than to care for the patients itself," declared Rep. W. O. Hanks (D) Jasper county, as the house rejected the senate alterations. "We owe these debts and ought never to renig," echoed Rep. J. W. Farley (D) Platte county.

Still awaiting consideration was the old age pension bill, certain to prompt some house debate because of senate alterations. The house originally passed the bill at $4,150,000 to pay back a part of a 30 per cent pension cut made 17 months ago. But the senate reduced the total to $2,890,000—still far above the $600,000 asked by Gov. Forrest C. Donnell.

An Executive Session While the house eased through non-controversial measures, the senate locked itself in executive session to consider 75 recess appointments submitted by Gov. Forrest C. Donnell. They included some of the top spots in his political family.

Among today's finally-passed bills, all of which went to the governor for his signature or veto, were:

For expenses of the special session $100,000; for departmental expenses of some elective officials $58,400; to refund state bureau $860,757; and a minor, non-controversial bill.

All the appropriations went to the governor with figures altered from his original recommendations.

Brave Bird at Midway

This ignorant little bird probably doesn't know a tommy gun from a stick, so it perches innocently on the business end of the weapon used by one of the defenders of Midway Island. It is a white fairy tern, one of the many species of birdlife on the island.

them, 45-50 miles to the west, the Russians were spreading over the Don Bend and striking across vital supply lines.

New Supply Line

Opening of the new land supply line into Stalingrad was made possible by the column which early this week drove southward down the west bank of the Volga to join with the garrison. For weeks the garrison had depended on supplies and reinforcements carried perilously across the river which now is increasingly choked with ice.

Hundreds of miles of rail lines, becoming more and more vital to the Germans as winter whistles across the southern steppes, were under serious threat elsewhere as the powerful Soviet offensive swept into new areas.

The Russians tightened their grip on the two lines running southwestward and west out of Stalingrad to what is now the Nazi rear, denying a stretch nearly 100 miles long to the invaders.

Farther to the west, Red army groups driving west from Chernyshevskaya were approaching a sector traversed by the Nazi-held Moscow-Rostov line, one of the most vital rail connections with the Caucasus.

Thus the Russians were in position to gain control of a triangular network bounded on the north by Millerovo, on the south by Tikhoretsk and on the east by Stalingrad.

Scot At German Boasts

The Soviet information bureau scoffed meanwhile at German boasts of terrifying "new weapons" described by Berlin as flame-throwing tanks capable of spouting a flame over a five-story building, and electrically operated machine guns capable of firing 3,000 bullets a minute.

Germany has no such weapons this official announcement said, adding that the Nazis reported them in action only to divert attention of the German home front from tremendous losses before Stalingrad.

Overnight the Stalingrad garrison struck out hard, dislodging the Germans from four large blocks in the northern part and shelling 950 in this and other places in the town, the midday communique said.

Red troops extended their advance during the night northwest of Stalingrad and wiped out 1,000 Germans and captured much booty, the war bulletin also said. Sixty-six German tanks and 25 planes were reported destroyed in another sector.

To the southwest, further successful offensive operations were reported with 600 killed.

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
Editor of Advance

The seven brief Scripture passages which constitute this lesson have evidently been chosen with the purpose of emphasizing seven aspects of the mission of the Church. These aspects are not distinct and separate, but are interrelated in the emphasis upon the Church as a fellowship of Christian believers.

Another passage which gives in concrete form a basic definition of the Church might well have been included. This is found in the closing verses of the first chapter of Paul's Epistle to the Ephesians, in which he speaks of Christ as "the head over all things to the Church, which," he says, "is His body, the fullness of Him, that filleth all in all."

With that passage in mind, we are accustomed to speak of the Church as "the body of Christ," but do we always realize what is involved in that definition? For the important emphasis should not be upon the body, but upon the spirit that animates the body.

No group calling itself a Church is a church in reality unless the spirit of Christ is there. Suppose, for example, that a group of people were to set out purposely and in fellowship to embody in their community the spirit of some great man—say a great American like Abraham Lincoln. We could not think of any group in a community really embodying the spirit of Lincoln if that group were bigoted and narrow-minded, characterized by malice or vengeful feelings.

To embody the spirit of Lincoln the group would have to manifest the qualities of Lincoln, in tolerance, magnanimity, and all the things that those who once were his foes as well as friends have recognized as noble in that great man. Is not this a simple illustration of what the Church should be in the community—the body in which the spirit of Christ lives and in which the purposes and works of Christ are manifest.

With this basic definition in mind, let us note these seven aspects of the Church, all centering in its ministry. First is the ministry of the Church in kindly fellowship and moral discipline. If there is a quarrel between brothers, the Church ought to seek to adjust the matter amicably and in the spirit of Christ. Second is the ministry of the Church in witnessing, even unto the uttermost part—that is, telling of Christ and of all that He has to offer to mankind. Third is the ministry of the Church in teaching and prayer. Fourth is the ministry of the Church in the relief of distress and in helpfulness toward the troubled and the needy. Fifth is the ministry of the Church in the manifestation of brotherhood in larger ways.

For instance, the early churches in outlying districts did what they could for the relief of their poorer fellow Christians in Jerusalem and in Judea, thus giving an early manifestation of what has become common in our day through agencies like the Red Cross. It is a point worth emphasizing that this was a product of the early Church and Christianity. Sixth is the ministry of the Church in spreading the Gospel through missionary agencies. Nothing emphasized so strongly the reality of the salvation that came to early Christians as their incentive to spread to others the blessings that they had found. Seventh is the ministry of the Church in creating the sense and the bond of a world-wide eternal fellowship of Christians, with God the Father, and with His Son, Jesus Christ.

What a marvelous program and mission for the Church! And what a power the Church can be in any community when in reality and in truth it embodies the spirit of Christ in fulfilling such a sevenfold mission!

Day of Prayer

Honoring the request made by President Roosevelt, churches and synagogues throughout the nation observed Thanksgiving Day and will observe New Year's Day in public and private prayer for the safety of the nation. On seven previous occasions, each of them during a major war, national days of prayer have been observed by authority of Presidential proclamation.

The President's recent message is striking evidence of the religious faith of America. It is an appropriate and timely reminder of the spiritual elements involved in the present world war.

America does not depend upon physical resources alone to overcome the threat to world security and peace. The mobilization of great armies, the opening of new fronts of battle, the absorption of countless thousands into war production, the strengthening of home defenses—all this is accompanied by ceaseless spiritual supplication.

On Thanksgiving Day, the national offering of prayers symbolized America's gratitude to God for the blessings of the year. This observance has become a part of our tradition. On New Year's Day, however, our people will turn towards the future, praying for courage and endurance in the trials that lie before them. Their prayers will rise in union for all who have suffered persecution, for the innocent who have looked too soon upon death and destruction, for soldiers everywhere facing horrors and hardships so that mankind may be delivered from enslavement and degradation.

America will pray in the name of world-wide brotherhood. Never before, perhaps, have we felt so deeply the ties that unite us to the peoples of the world. Our destiny, our happiness, is linked with that of races whose color may be white, yellow, or black, whose languages and customs may differ from our own, but who nevertheless are co-equal members of the human family and whose welfare is therefore, inseparable from our own.

Medals And Pins Presented To The 4-H Club Members

Received By A Large Number For Outstanding Work In Year

Pettis county 4-H club members who were presented their achievement pins by Olen Monsees, President of the Pettis County Farm Bureau brought along 45 pounds of phonograph records last Saturday. The proceeds from the records have been sent to the National 4-H Club committee to help pay Missouri's share on the purchase of an ambulance to be presented to the National Red Cross by the 4-H clubs of the United States. This presentation will be made during the National 4-H Club Congress next week. The proceeds from the black walnuts which they also brought will be added to the fund of the 4-H Club Council to be used for 4-H club work in Pettis county. Several of the boys and girls will be selling walnut hulls and placing the money in war saving stamps to be converted into bonds.

Lard Yield From Fat

With 100 pounds of unrendered fat, the yield of lard will be about 76 pounds, says T. A. Ewing of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. The percentage may vary, depending on the type and condition of the animal and the kind of feed used.

Hog Killing Time Arrives

Discussion As To Best Methods Of Slaughtering

Hog killing time is at hand in Pettis County and as neighbors cooperate in this farm task there is considerable discussion regarding best slaughter types and methods of killing reports County Agent, J. U. Morris. It is agreed that big differences show up in thickness of loins, depth and thickness of hams, percentage of lean to fat, length and smoothness of sides, and other qualities recognized as marks of good meat animals.

Experienced farmers agree that hoisting a hog, then sticking it without stunning, contribute to a better-bled carcass. This not only gives the meat a more attractive appearance but also contributes to a quicker cure and less danger of spoiled meat.

Farmers have observed that the condition of the liver and intestines of slaughtered animals indicates conditions under which the animals were raised. Where animals have been raised on clean ground, livers are free from white spots or scar tissue marking spots left by the journey of the round worm through the pig. The intestines will be free from round worms and thorn-headed worms which detract from the value of the intestines for casings.

Farmers have found that it is a good practice to split the carcass to effect more rapid chilling, and that fisting the leaf lard loose while the carcass is hot makes a much easier job. They also like the idea of cutting the carcass in a way to provide cuts of pork chops suitable for canning. This gives a wider distribution of the meat supply throughout the year instead of a surplus at slaughtering time.

Many farmers have found that one of the most effective pieces of modern slaughtering equipment is the thermometer, by which the temperature of the scalding water can be kept at from 145 to 150 degrees. The use of this instrument avoids "setting" the hair on the animals.

Next Week In The Kitchen

Honey

Honey is an energy food which is quickly absorbed and utilized by the body. The flavor of honey varies with the kind of flowers visited by the bees. The lighter the color of the honey usually the more mild the flavor. Flavor of honey is not necessarily a test of quality since flavor is usually a matter of personal preference which is usually a matter of the flavor to which one has been accustomed. In Missouri the darker stronger honey is used in gingerbread, spice cookies, or fruit cakes while the lighter mild flavored honey is for table use, and for custards, plain cakes, and other mildly flavored foods.

Extracted or liquid honey is the most economical form for use in quantity. It is available on the market in both glass and tin containers ranging in size from 1 pound to 5, 10, and 60 pounds.

Honey will keep almost indefinitely if properly stored in a warm, dry place where the temperature remains above 70 degrees Fahrenheit. If stored in a damp place it may absorb enough moisture to cause fermentation. Temperatures as low as freezing do not injure the color or flavor, but such temperatures may hasten granulation. Honey is one food that should not be placed in the refrigerator. It will keep better at room temperature.

Should honey granulate it may be used as a spread or in baking, since granulation does not cause any undesirable effects, but most people prefer the liquid form. To change granulated honey back to the liquid state, merely place the container in the top of a double boiler or set the container on a brazier bottom in warm water until all the crystals have melted. The heating should be a slow process as heating above 140 degrees Fahrenheit will harm both the flavor and the color of the honey.

Cooking With Sorghum

Fresh sorghum and hot biscuits are a favorite dish of long standing. Sorghum is one of the popular energy foods and it contains a goodly portion of iron and calcium, while white sugar supplies only energy. When using sorghum in place of sugar in baking, $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon of soda is added for each cup of sorghum. Since sorghum is liquid it is necessary to reduce the liquid in the recipe $\frac{1}{4}$ cup for each cup of sorghum used. There is some difference also in baking foods which contain sorghum.

One housewife writes: "I have been using more sorghum in cooking lately, and I've been having a good deal of trouble scorching my cakes and cookies, gingerbread, and even sorghum waffles. I use the same temperature I've always used for baking other cakes and cookies so I can't understand why my foods burn."

This woman's difficulty was due to the fact that sorghum and molasses burn easily so the temperature for baking gingerbread or other sorghum mixtures should be lower than the temperature for baking mixtures made with sugar. The same rule holds in baking waffles. The waffle iron needs to be a little cooler for gingerbread or sorghum waffles than for plain waffles. It is advisable to use a moderate oven—350 degrees Fahrenheit—for baking gingerbread in shallow pans, and only 400 degrees Fahrenheit for baking gingerbread in muffin pans.

Do Not Waste Meat

Meat is one of the more expensive foods to produce and practically everyone likes meat. It is surprising, however, to note how much good meat goes back to the kitchen on the dinner plate. With a good steak as much as one-half or one-third of it sometimes is left on the plate after the diner is satisfied. The serving should have been cut differently. Use should be made, also, of the fat and other portions which often are wasted. All bits of left-over meat, the bones from the roast, and the fat trimmings should be used and not wasted.

Meat is sometimes wasted because people do not recognize that

Rural Life Problems

Many people, no doubt, have thought of their responsibility toward sharing the meat when they were planning for their Thanksgiving guests. As usual, the turkey perhaps was the main dish on many tables, however, in many cases this probably was done in an effort to really share the meat since poultry is not included in the list of meats which America is to keep down to 2½ pounds per person per week. This is not only one way of being patriotic, but eating turkey is also one way of being happy.

The next problem after share the meat by using turkey or other poultry is how to use the leftovers so as not to waste any meat. Creamed turkey over left-over mashed potatoes makes a tasty dish as well as does making a layer of dressing in a baking dish and punching down into it the pieces of meat which have been removed from the bones. This can be warmed in the oven for 30 minutes and served on a busy day following Thanksgiving. Tasty salads can also be made by using small particles of meat taken from the bones and mixed with hard cooked eggs, bits of onion, and with shredded cabbage, parsley, and endive.

It is a very perishable product. Ground meat and meat organs are more perishable than meat in larger pieces. All meat fresh or cooked should be kept in the coldest part of the refrigerator. The uncooked meat should be left uncovered or loosely covered, the cooked meat should be covered. When home slaughtering of meat is done, up-to-date directions for curing and canning meat should be followed. Nearly every year someone loses a ham or shoulder of meat because the meat did not cure properly. Every precaution should be taken to avoid this loss.

Five Ways to Serve Cabbage

Cabbage is one of our stored vegetables for winter use, or if purchased it is an inexpensive vegetable but full of food value. Cabbage to be at its best is served raw, or cooked just a few minutes. Cabbage that is cooked until it turns brown has little food value and wins no new friends for the product. There are many ways to serve cabbage besides boiling.

To prepare five-minute cabbage, chop the cabbage fine immediately before cooking it, and cook it uncovered in milk for 5 to 8 minutes. It must be cooked over low heat so the milk will not scorch. If cooked in this way, the cabbage still has some of the crisp texture of the raw cabbage and most of the vitamin content. The milk gives extra flavor and food value.

One tart apple of good size, peeled, cored, and sliced, and cooked with $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. of chopped cabbage makes an interesting cabbage dish. A rather sour apple is particularly good with red cabbage and helps to keep the color bright, but you can use it with any kind of cabbage.

Serve "au gratin" cabbage sometimes. To make this, use alternate layers of chopped cabbage, which has been cooked for a few minutes, and cheese sauce topped with butter crumbs in a casserole. Bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes or until the crumbs are browned.

Panning is another good way of preparing cabbage. Chop the cabbage, put a little fat into a flat heavy pan—just enough fat to keep the vegetable from sticking—add the cabbage, and cover. Cook over a low heat for about 5 to 10 minutes. For extra flavor you can add some crisp bits of salt pork, bacon, or ham.

Two salad suggestions are: cabbage, apple, and raisin salad; and cabbage, carrot and nut salad.

Students Furnish Food For Needy

Remembering those less fortunate than themselves students of Smith-Cotton high school volunteered to prepare Thanksgiving baskets for a number of families, whose names they obtained from Miss Bettye Field, school nurse.

Each home room prepared a basket. There are twenty-seven home rooms, therefore twenty-seven baskets, and in addition the junior and senior council each filled one, making a total of twenty-nine. Each basket contained a chicken and food that will not only supply a Thanksgiving dinner, but will mean additional food for other meals.

The baskets were delivered in trucks furnished by the city, and aiding in the delivery were Cecil Glenn, trustee officer, and the following students: Kenneth Lutgen, Virgil Landers and Cecil Swift.

Miss Edna Shell, faculty member, sponsored the activity.

Papers Helpful For Farmers

"The influence local newspapers have in assisting farmers with the solution of their problems is tremendous," said Dean M. F. Miller of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture before a meeting of the Missouri Press Association at St. Louis recently. "Moreover, with the increasing difficulties of transportation, thus increasing the difficulties of holding meetings and conferences for educational purposes, the influence of the press may greatly increase."

"The College of Agriculture is making an all-out effort to carry to the farmers of Missouri the best and the most economical methods of production so that they may meet their production goals. Naturally, the College works through every possible agency in reaching farm people. It works through direct contact of members of its staff, both at Columbia and throughout the state. It uses printed circulars and bulletins in abundance. It relies on the radio and the press. We realize at this time the outstanding service which the press is rendering and may render in the future."

"I realize fully the great pressure now placed upon the rural press to carry almost unlimited masses of wartime material, quantities that are many times greater than could be used even if the entire space were available."

Moreover, I realize that regardless of the fine public spirit of most rural editors, these papers must at least pay some financial returns. In this connection I wish to pay tribute to the fine attitude of rural editors regarding community enterprises. In most of their communities these men are outstanding local leaders, very much interested in the highest type of public service. During these war times they may be super leaders, giving great service to the country."

Cereals Cooked Thoroughly Best

All cereals need to be thoroughly cooked to be at their best, says Extension Circular 481—Using Whole Grains in Family Meals—just issued by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. If the grain has not been broken or cracked, several hours of cooking are needed to give a palatable procedure.

If the grains are cracked, ground, or in a flake form they need to be cooked only 20 minutes or less to break down the cellulose, cook the starch, and make them easy to digest. Most persons, however, much prefer the flavor of cereals that have been cooked a longer time. The fineness of the grind of the cereal is more important from the nutritional standpoint than the length of time it is cooked.

Whole, skin, or evaporated milk may be used for all or a part of the liquid in cooking any cereal. For a given amount of cereal a little more milk than water is required. If dry or powdered milk is used, combine it with dry with the dry cereal, about $\frac{1}{4}$ to 1 cup of cereal, and cook with water, increasing the amount of water slightly. Cereal cooked in milk tastes different than cereal cooked in water. From $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 cup of additional milk for each serving of cereal may be added to the diet in this way.

Finely-ground cereals require more liquid to cook than do flakes or coarsely-ground cereals. Two cups of liquid are sufficient for 1 cup of rolled oats, while 3 cups are needed for 1 cup of cracked wheat, and 4 cups for 1 cup of finely-ground cereal.

Well cooked cereal pours when fresh-cooked, does not flatten out or seek its own level but retains a mound shape as it cools. It is not pasty, but each granule or flake retains its individual form and yet is a part of the whole. It is cooked long enough to really cook the starch, bring out the natural nutty flavor of the grain from which it is made, and has just the right amount of salt.

Commend On Production Of Foodstuffs

President Of The University In Praise Of Farmers

Congratulations to the farm people of Missouri on their magnificent achievement in food production in 1942 are expressed by Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, President of the University of Missouri. At the same time he voiced concern over the difficult problems of labor, machinery, and transportation confronting farmers for 1943, and pledged the full cooperation of the University if meeting these problems.

President Middlebush's statement is in complete accord with a recent resolution adopted by the executive committee of the American Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities and made public by the president of the association and the chairman of the committee, Dr. Edmund Ezra Day of Cornell University and Dr. T. O. Walton of Texas A. and M. College.

Day and Walton pointed out that the production of food crops and livestock products in 1942 was the largest in the history of American farming and that agriculture had met its obligations to the war effort fully and completely, adding:

"For this wonderful success much credit must be given not only to men and boys who often worked the equivalent of a 70 or 80 hour week but also to the farm wives who labored long hours in the fields and barns in addition to caring for the homes and the families."

Emphasizes Difficulties

At the same time, Day and Walton emphasized the difficulties in maintaining farm production in 1943 with a greatly increased shortage of labor, the threat of shortages in farm equipment, and the ever present possibility of droughts and other unfavorable weather.

Looking to the next crop year, they said: "The world's food supply, particularly the supply of food for this nation and its allies, is rapidly becoming one of the most important problems of the war."

"The nation's success in dealing with this problem will largely depend upon skill and realism in applying to its solution the experience of practical farmers and the accumulated results of agricultural scientist shall we be able to make the adjustments which are necessary for maximum production of food and fiber in the face of ever-mounting shortage of manpower, an insufficient supply of farm machinery, diminishing transportation, and the unavailability of many plant foods and spray materials on which the agriculture of the country has depended in the past."

"It becomes the mission of Land-Grant Colleges in their research and through their extension services to work more closely with practical farmers than ever before. It is their job to foresee as far as possible the adjustments which are ahead. It is their job to interpret fearlessly to the public and to those Bureaus of the Government which have to do with food supply, the true conditions under which food and fiber production is going forward."

"Only by such authentic representations are we likely to secure the adoption of those national policies which will protect our food supply."

Miss Wissmann To 4-H Club Congress

Miss Anna Wissman of the Flat Creek Young America At Work 4-H club will leave Saturday for a five days' trip to Chicago for the National 4-H Club Congress. This award comes as recognition of her work in food preparation and in 4-H club work in general. She will represent Missouri in the national contest for which the award is $200 scholarship to each winner in six districts of the United States. While there, the Missouri delegation of twenty boys and girls and their chaperon will be guests of various organizations of the city of Chicago.

Missouri Wins From Kansas, Score 42 to 13

Steuber Starred For Missouri; Evans For Kansas

By Frank Hood
 COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Missouri, by plucking the Kansas Jayhawks yesterday, 42 to 13, tucked away another Big Six conference football championship, but 10,000 fans are still arguing the respective merits of Missouri's Bob Steuber and Kansas' Ray Evans.

The two backfield aces clashed in the traditional Thanksgiving day struggle in a duel billed to settle once and for all the question of individual superiority. The game itself, never in doubt after the opening minutes when the Tigers moved to the first of their six touchdowns, dissolved into a backdrop for the Steuber-Evans match.

Both pigskin pupils turned in almost perfect report cards. Steuber scored three touchdowns—one of them cancelled by a penalty—averaged almost 10 yards in 14 romps with the ball and batted five for five in extra point placement attempts to boost his scoring for the season to 114 points.

Throws For Good Measure

The ambitious Evans, needing only five pass completions to set a new national standard for 1942 competition, connected on 13 additional throws for good measure. In all, he completed 18 of his 31 attempts for 236 yards—and both Kansas touchdowns—to jump his season aerial gain yardage to 1,117 in 101 completions.

When not otherwise occupied the two stars were playing at the other fellow's game, punting, kicking off and, not infrequently, tackling each other. At the conclusion the critical audience was agreed on only one point—both boys definitely belong with the all time greats of Big Six history.

The ease with which the Tiger team vanquished Kansas to earn its third title in four years is best told by the statistical table. The Jayhawks got both scores against Missouri reserve in the final quarter, and despite frequent substitutions, the Tigers rolled up more than 600 yards by rushing and passing.

Promiscuous Replacements

The chesty Tigers added zest to the homecoming victory by promiscuous replacements late in the game. Playing their last tilt against a college force, Faurot permitted several of the senior linemen to try their hand in the backfield. The lumbering efforts of the forwards as they side-stepped, swivelled bulky hips and generally lost yardage brought cheers from the homecomers.

Another oddity: Jack Keith, veteran center who fractured an arm in the Nebraska game two weeks ago, entered the contest with a plaster cast, but no shoulder pads, to kick the other Missouri extra point.

Only one other conference game remains: Kansas State at Nebraska Saturday.

Army-Navy Game Saturday

By Sid Feder
 ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Army comes to town today for the football game with Navy tomorrow, and the local folks are going to discover that the cadets are human after all.

This no doubt may come as a surprise, inasmuch as some of the boys hereabouts have been building this army team up into almost a myth, with a running attack like a set of tanks, a line like so many trench mortars and an aerial offense no weaker than a formation of flying fortresses.

And the Navy coaches haven't knocked down the impression to any extent, either, as they readied their middle gridders for the first service scramble in the naval academy's backyard since the gay nineties.

This is the tussle President Roosevelt shifted to Tiny Thompson Stadium from Philadelphia's mammoth 100,000-seat municipal soupbowl because of wartime transportation difficulties. The Navy estimates no more than 15,000 cash customers will be on hand for the vest-pocket edition of the usual super-duper.

chel comes right out in meeting to report that his fellows are "completely outclassed" and don't have much chance against the cadet steamroller.

Yet, the middies, themselves winding up their drill-work yesterday in a "semi" secret practice that reporters were permitted to watch until they started to practice, were so full of zip and zing they didn't look as if they'd even heard of Army.

Spotlighting New Russian Offensive

Stalingrad is in the war spotlight again, but this time it's the Russians who are on the offensive. Map magnifies the area where Soviet soldiers are beginning to bite into the flanks of the German column that has been trying to take Stalingrad for nearly 100 days.

Willkie Stresses Unity Strongly

TORONTO, Nov. 27—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie told Canadians Wednesday night the people of United Nations must define their purposes during the war and reach "a common understanding of what they fight for and what they hope for" or risk having "sacrificed and suffered to win a war for no purpose."

This war, Willkie declared in an address prepared for delivery at a rally here of the Canadian aid-to-Russia fund "is either a 'grand coalition' of peoples, fighting a common war for liberation, or it is nothing."

"It must be either a great pooling of all our energies, inspired by a united strategy, planned and fought on a global scale, or it will be lost."

"We must declare the common purpose which drives us all, or we run the risk of having worked and sacrificed and suffered to win a war for no purpose."

Willkie said that he found everywhere on his flight around the world, from which he returned five weeks ago, encouragement on the fighting fronts and a resolution to win in the peoples behind the fronts.

"But I also found—and this troubled me greatly—I also found worry and doubt in the hearts and minds of the people. . . They were searching for a common cause. . . The whole world seemed to me in an eager, demanding, hungry, ambitious mood, ready for incredible sacrifice if only to justify the sacrifices already made," he added.

World War I ended "with an armistice, not a real peace," he went on, because Lenin gave the world one set of answers, Wilson gave it another and "neither set of answers redeemed the war or made it anything more than a costly fight for power."

"I do not believe this war need be the same," he said.

Goebbels Tries To Pacify Nazis

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—A revealing article by German propaganda minister Joseph Goebbels broadcast by the Berlin radio Wednesday night indicates the German people are being swayed by allied propaganda and are concerned about the German reverses.

Furthermore, throughout the article is the strong suggestion that the Nazi leaders are gravely worried about German morale.

In one of the most interesting essays Goebbels has yet written in the weekly publication Das Reich, the propaganda minister has told the Germans that they must try to surpass the enemy not only in gaining victories "but also in the art of mastering reverses."

Ceiling Prices On Auto Tires

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration established ceiling prices for new passenger car tires made of reclaimed rubber.

The maximum retail price for a size 6.00 by 16 was set at $13.25 with other ceiling prices as follows:

Size 7.00 by 15, $17.80; 6.25 and 6.50 by 16, $16.65; 7.00 by 16, $18.25; 5.25 and 5.50 by 17, $12.20; 5.25 and 5.50 by 18, $11.10; 4.75 and 5.00 by 19, $9.95; 4.50 and 4.75 by 20, $11.05.

Tires of reclaimed rubber are the only kind now being manufactured for passenger cars. They may be sold only to persons holding ration certificates.

OPA said the ceiling of $13.25 for a 6.00 by 16 tire of reclaimed rubber is about 22 per cent below the ceilings for a first-line tire of the same size.

Germans Rushing Aircraft To The Tunisia Front

Nazis Piling Up Strength Trying To Hold Peninsula

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 26—(P)—The London Daily Mail today reported in a dispatch from Madrid that the Germans are "piling up fighters and bombers in great numbers" in the Bizerte-Tunis fortified zone in preparation for the struggle for total air supremacy.

The dispatch said that the Germans' intention to sacrifice even Tripoli if necessary and concentrate all their strength on holding the Tunisian peninsula are "becoming daily more evident."

It added that the "Axis military commentators point out that it is not possible to control and seal the Sicilian channel from Tripoli but from Bizerte it is quite possible."

Battle At "Critical Phase"

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

While the Russians threatened Adolf Hitler with his greatest military disaster of the war, Britain's foreign secretary Anthony Eden told parliament in London that the battle for North Africa had reached "an exceedingly critical phase."

Capping this ominous statement, however, Eden declared: "The British First Army, strong supported by United States forces, is making its way eastward over enormous distances with the utmost possible speed... greatly helped in the advance by the vigorous resistance which the French troops of Tunisia already are offering to the German and Italian invaders."

More Nazi Troops

Other reports said the Germans, desperately seeking to hold the key North African buffer state, had landed still more troops at the back door of their Bizerte-Tunis perimeter of defenses and were throwing heavy reinforcements into Southern Tunisia.

A Vichy broadcast said the Nazis had landed reinforcements at both Gabes and Sfax, south of Tunis on the Gulf of Gabes.

Without confirmation elsewhere, the Berlin radio asserted that the British 1st Army had "suffered a severe setback in its attempt to gain ground in the Tunisian-Algerian frontier area."

The broadcast said German and Italian tank troops ambushed British tank spearheads and several motorized columns in the coastal mountains, and declared German sappers had cut off the line of retreat for most of the advanced British forces by blowing up two hairpin bends in the road.

Showdown Across Tunisia

Allied dispatches pictured the struggle as nearing a showdown clear across Tunisia from the Algerian-Tunisian frontier region, with the Axis entrenched in a 30-mile-deep zone along the north-east coast.

A spokesman at United Nations headquarters in North Africa said U. S. army troops and French Legions drove back a German screening force southeast of Tunis, the capital, while British troops compelled a similar Axis screen to retreat in the north around Bizerte.

American parachute troops guarding an airfield in the south were officially credited with engaging an Axis mechanized column and taking a number of prisoners.

Rush Seven Bills For Funds To Final Vote

McReynolds In Verbal Attack On The Governor

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 25—(P)—A fast-working senate today drove seven emergency appropriation bills to final passage among them a $2,890,000 old age pension grant — and quit for the holiday, determined to end the three-weeks special session by Saturday's sundown.

Both chambers will return Friday to work out differences in five bills. As soon as agreements are reached the session will end.

The senate worked with determination today to clear its calendar. It paused only once — to listen attentively while the veteran senator Allen McReynolds (D) Carthage, gave Gov. Forrest C. Donnell the worst tongue lashing of the latter's brief political career.

Then it got to work and by sundown it had appropriated a session's total of $4,780,592 to finance state departments through the balance of the year. That was far more than the $2,500,000 recommended by Donnell, but a deep cut from the $6,958,943 the house voted to spend.

The $2,890,000 old age pension appropriation will restore a part of a 30 per cent cut made in pension checks 17 months ago. If Washington will match the appropriation dollar-for-dollar the sum will pay back about half the cut. Federal officials refused to do so, saying they would do, however.

Anyway, the bill must go back to the house for agreement, and that chamber would rather vote $4,150,000 to the pensioners. Then it must be approved by the governor and he recommended only $600,000 — enough to restore the cut for November and December only.

Turkey, Ice Cream And Other 'Goodies' For Nursery Kiddies

The children of the Melita Day Nursery are going to have turkey for Thanksgiving. Turkey, cranberries, ice cream and all sorts of delicious food. The good people of Sedalia after reading in the Democrat that donations were not very plentiful, responded generously.

The turkeys are going to be provided by James T. Montgomery, from whom the nursery superintendent received the following letter this morning:

Contents Of Letter

"Mrs. Buell,
"Care Melita Day Nursery,
"Sedalia, Missouri.
"My dear Mother Buell:
"I noticed in last evening's Democrat that your appeal for a Thanksgiving dinner for your kiddies brought only slight response. The good Samaritan seems to have turned into the Levite and passed on the other side.

"Upon receipt of this note, you will please send down to Eddie Hildebrandt's on Osage street just around the corner south from Second street, and he will give your messenger two turkeys to make the Thanksgiving dinner for your kiddies and their mothers. If you think two is not sufficient, then he will give you three. If you haven't sufficient cranberries to go around, then send to some store and get enough so that each kid may have plenty. Tell the grocerman to send me the bill.

"Well, now my Thanksgiving turkey will taste better!

"Yours very truly,
"J. T. Montgomery."

Germans In Escape Caught

Tried Dash For Liberty On The Way To Internment

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 25—(P)—Four German soldiers, captured by Australian forces in Africa, escaped near here early today from a prison train carrying them to an internment camp in the United States, but all were recaptured within seven hours.

Two were caught beside the train almost immediately. The third was found asleep in a parked automobile four hours later. The last man was picked up at a military construction project after he thumbed a ride with a workman.

All were members of General Rommel's Afrika corps.

The escape was discovered by an alert brakeman, who saw a man lying beside the tracks as the train pulled through Altamont Pass, near Livermore, about 30 miles east of Oakland. He signaled an emergency stop.

The man was retaken and an armed guard saw a second prisoner climbing an embankment. The guard fired a single shot and the prisoner surrendered. Military officers, who authorized publication of the story, did not make public the names of these two.

A man-hunt involving hundreds of military, naval and civilian authorities was immediately organized for the other two—Sgt. Pilot Hans Koehber, 21, ringleader of the escape, and Corp. G. Edward Lorenc, 21, formerly of Rommel's mine-laying division.

Two civilian defense auxiliary policemen found Lorenc asleep in an automobile near Pleasanton where the driver had left it while seeking to fix a flat tire. Lorenc said he crawled in the automobile to get away.

Sergeant Koehber contributed to his own capture by thumbing a ride with an American workman. The motorist soon discovered his companion couldn't speak English and turned him over to the gate guard at the military project where he worked.

Under Koehber's direction, the four prisoners had climbed through a window of the train intending to reunite in Mexico. Lorenc was well supplied for the trip. He carried extra clothing and rations for several days.

Lorenc insisted his primary purpose was to reach a Polish consul to establish his nationality as a Pole. He said he had lived most of his life in Poland, although German-born. He said he was conscripted during a visit to Germany. At the first opportunity in Africa, he said, he played dead to be captured by Australian troops.

The War Department reported today that Gen. Duncan, 50, was forced down while flying from England to North Africa on November 17. His plane went into the sea off the northern coast of France. No information, the department said, has been received as to whether any of the personnel in the plane survived.

Duncan, a command pilot and combat observer, was made chief of air staff in the European theater last July. He is the second general of the army air forces listed as missing in action. Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker has been missing since he flew out to bomb the Japanese fleet approaching Midway island last June. Two other generals, Maj. Gen. Herbert A. Dargue and Brig. Gen. Harold H. George, have been killed in airplane accidents since the war started.

Gen. Duncan's wife lives at Montgomery, Ala. He was born at Leighton, Ala., March 30, 1892. His first military service was as an enlisted man in the Alabama military guard on duty on the Mexican border in 1917.

Indict Two In Fraud Case

Naval Officer Is Accused Of The Taking Of Bribe

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25—(P)—A federal grand jury today indicted Lt. Comm. Lloyd V. Scott, assistant resident inspector of aircraft for the eleventh naval district, and Edward F. Zap, noted dynamic engineer, on charges of bribery, and conspiracy to defraud the United States.

Three indictments were returned — one a conspiracy jointly against Zap and Scott; the second against Scott accusing him of accepting a bribe; the third against Zap charging him with offering a bribe.

James E. Harrington, chief of the war frauds unit of the Department of Justice here, said preliminary investigation indicated that the government was defrauded of several hundred thousand dollars.

Scott has been relieved of his duties pending trial. Zap was arrested recently by FBI agents as he returned from a trip to Washington, D. C.

Harrington said Zap was engaged in secret experimental work for the navy — paid upon Scott's authorization. The indictments charge that Zap bribed Scott to approve claims which are alleged to have been fraudulent.

The indictment listed 13 counts of conspiracy. It was voted at the conclusion of hearings, involving scores of witnesses.

Maximum penalties for conviction would exceed $100,000 in fines and 30 years imprisonment.

He told in elementary terms of the functions the skin performs, amazing to the laymen. He amplified this part of his talk with references to the body requirements of vitamins and the manner in which these may be obtained by consumption of foods grown in season.

The speaker was presented by Rev. H. M. Janssen, program chairman, who also had as his guest, Dr. B. E. Broadus.

Song Leader Burney Morris, father of a new daughter, presented the club members with cigars in celebration of the event.

Today's meeting took the place of the regularly scheduled Thursday meeting. It was announced that those who failed to attend today's session may make up their attendance by their presence at a meeting of the board of directors and committee chairmen at Keuck's Friday noon.

Registration For Rental Property Soon

December 15 Has Been Designated By Area Director

Registration of residential rental property by landlords in Pettis and Johnson counties will start December 15, it was announced today by James M. Robertson, Kansas City defense-rental area director. The two counties have been made a part of the Kansas City area, and the registration will be supervised from the office here.

Robertson said, however, an attorney examiner would be in charge of the Sedalia office. He will have seven assistants, who will take care of the actual registration. A temporary office will be opened in Warrensburg when registration starts.

The registration tentatively set for December 15, Robertson pointed out, is only for landlords of dwelling units—including houses and apartments—and registration for hotels and rooming houses will be held at a date to be announced later.

Federal rent control will become effective in Pettis and Johnson counties December 1. The "freeze" date for rents in the two counties is March 1, 1942.

Forms Will Be Available

Forms, known as registration statements, will be available at the area rent office several days prior to the date set for the registration. Several tentative locations for the office now are under consideration, Robertson said, and a definite selection of the rent headquarters will be announced soon.

Landlords are requested to read carefully the instructions outlined on the face of the registration form. Each house, apartment or similar rental accommodation must be registered if it is either rented or offered for rent. Each landlord receiving rent from one or two roomers must register such rental accommodations at this time. If rent is received from more than two roomers the person receiving such rent will register later as a rooming house operator. A person may rent a house and in turn rent two rooms; if so, he registers his rental units since he is also a landlord.

Registration forms are in triplicate—one for the rent director's office, one for the landlord and one for the tenant. When the statement is received at the area rent office, it will be carefully inspected, and if it appears to be in order as to the rent being charged and the services provided, with respect to the maximum rent date of March 1, 1942, the carbon copies will be sent to the landlord and tenant, and the original will be retained in the area rent office.

Instructions to the tenant are on the reverse side of his copy of the statement and he is thus notified that unless otherwise instructed by the area rent director, he is to pay no more rent than the maximum legal rent as stated in the section marked by the heavy green arrow.

May List Objections

In the event the tenant disagrees with any of the statements in the form, he is to list his objections and return his copy to the rent office within 15 days. If the tenant does not disagree with any of the facts, he keeps his copy of the statement. The instructions also tell the tenant he cannot be evicted for refusing to pay more than three maximum legal rent.

Instructions to the landlord are on the reverse side of his copy of the registration statement. He is told that when the present tenant vacates, and the premises are rented to another tenant, he must

Nazi Toll In The Reds Offensive Steadily Mounts

Take Six More Villages And Many Prisoners

By EDDIE GILMORE

MOSCOW, Thursday, Nov. 26

—(P)—The Red army striking across the snow-covered Don steppes west of Stalingrad had seized the Don-Chir river junction in a move threatening rapidly to complete the envelopment of the 300,000-man German assault army at Stalingrad.

A special Soviet communique, the fourth in four days, announced also that the Nazi toll in dead and captured now stood at 98,000 and presumably another 140,000 Germans have been wounded in the bloody battle of the Don river bend.

The Russian armies occupied Novomozimovskiy and Staromazimovskiy at the junction of the Don and Chir rivers, 65 miles southwest of Stalingrad, the communique said, without detailing the significance of this advance.

This indicated one of two developments. Either the Russian army which struck across the Don river at Serafimovich on the north side of the bend had penetrated clear across that strategic elbow to the southern side, or that the Red army column driving down the Stalingrad-Novorossiisk railroad had turned northward to link up with the upper Soviet army.

Field dispatches had reported only a 30-mile gap remained to be closed in the Don elbow to encircle the Nazi Stalingrad armies. These reports preceded the issuance of the latest special communique, which did not give the new mileage rolled up by the Soviet offensive begun Nov. 19.

Take Six More Villages

Besides occupying the new and old cities of Maximovskiy on the Chir-Don rivers, the communique said, six more villages had been taken, the 22nd Nazi tank division had been routed, 15,000 prisoners taken, and 6,000 Nazis killed during yesterday's operations.

This made a total of 47,000 German dead and 51,000 captives. In addition the Russians said they now have captured 1,300 guns of all calibers, 5,518 trucks, 62 ammunition dumps and vast quantities of equipment and food.

Articles easily broken or crushed must be securely packed and crated or boxed. The liberal use of quantities of excelsior or like material in, around and between the articles and the outside container is advised.

Parcels containing perishable articles should be marked "Perishable" and packed in suitable containers, according to contents. Articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery will not be accepted for mailing. Special delivery stamps should be used to expedite delivery.

Coffee Enters Ration List

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(P)—Coffee took its place with sugar tonight on the list of foods restricted by the war while rationing officials studied the status of meat and butter.

As coffee sales were halted for one week preliminary to the start of a cup-a-day rationing, a spokesman for the coffee of price administration said that butter and meat supplies were in "pretty bad shape" although butter was not scarce enough yet to warrant immediate rationing. Meat is to be rationed about Jan. 15 when the new "universal books" are expected.

Meanwhile officials proceeded with plans to ration gasoline throughout the country Dec. 1 as a tire conservation measure despite fresh clamor in congress against the program. A house committee questioned William M. Jeffers, rubber administrator during the day.

For easterners, tonight brought a zero hour in the garage as well as the kitchen. The value of the basic "A" gasoline ration coupon was cut from four gallons to three in 16 east coast states—a squeeze that took most of the "family driving" out of the gasoline tank. Forty per cent of the country's entire storage supply of butter was frozen for military and lend-lease purchase last night. And OPA tonight, notified boarding houses, restaurants, hotels, hospitals and institutions that they must keep records of virtually all food served throughout the month of December.

Sedalian Has Autograph Of Mac Arthur

Located At Headquarters In Melbourne

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hula, 611 West Seventh street, recently received from their son, Tech. Sgt. Carl A. Hula, who is in the Signal Corps office in Australia and is believed to be on General Douglas MacArthur's staff, a picture of General MacArthur and Maj. Gen. Sutherland, which bears the autograph of both military men.

Sgt. Carl A. Hula

A letter from young Hula which accompanied the picture said: "Some of these were autographed for a few of the fellows here at headquarters."

Sgt. Hula enlisted in the United States Army in February 1942 and was kept in the office at Fort Leavenworth for five weeks after which he was sent to Camp Crowder for three weeks basic training. He was then sent to San Francisco with three other young men from Camp Crowder and on reaching there they were told they were a group of fifty soldiers who had been chosen from various camps over the United States to be sent overseas and sailed for Australia on May 8. He has been stationed at headquarters at Melbourne, Australia, and his parents have received mail regularly from him until the past forty or forty-five days, they have had no word from his since that time.

Writes Of Events
Sgt. Hula has written many things of interest since he has been in foreign service and has sent many pictures. One picture shows him with a Koala bear, (above) which he says is like a teddy bear. They never get very big and are content to snuggle up in anyone's arms and stay for several hours if they care to cuddle them that long.

Charles Hula, father of Sgt. Hula, is a coach carpenter at the Missouri Pacific shops.

Sgt. Hula is twenty-six years old and his brother, Milly Hula, 18 years old, recently enlisted in the Marines and will leave for St. Louis on Thanksgiving Day.

Lard Yield From Fat

With 100 pounds of unrendered fat, the yield of lard will be about 76 pounds, says T. A. Ewing of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. The percentage may vary, depending on the type and condition of the animal and the kind of feed used.

Hog Killing Time Arrives

Discussion As To Best Methods Of Slaughtering

Hog killing time is at hand in Pettis County and as neighbors cooperate in this farm task there is considerable discussion regarding the best slaughter types and methods of killing reports County Agent, J. U. Morris. It is agreed that big differences show up in thickness of loins, depth and thickness of hams, percentage of lean to fat, length and smoothness of sides, and other qualities recognized as marks of good meat animals.

Experienced farmers agree that hoisting a hog, then sticking it without stunning, contribute to a better-bled carcass. This not only gives the meat a more attractive appearance but also contributes to a quicker cure and less danger of spoiled meat.

Farmers have observed that the condition of the liver and intestines of slaughtered animals indicates conditions under which the animals were raised. Where animals have been raised on clean ground, livers are free from white spots or scar tissue marking spots left by the journey of the round worm through the pig. The intestines will be free from round worms and thorn-headed worms which detract from the value of the intestines for casings.

Farmers have found that it is a good practice to split the carcass to effect more rapid chilling, and that fisting the leaf lard loose while the carcass is hot makes a much easier job. They also like the idea of cutting the carcass in a way to provide cuts of pork chops suitable for canning. This gives a wider distribution of the meat supply throughout the year, instead of a surplus at slaughtering time.

Many farmers have found that one of the most effective pieces of modern slaughtering equipment is the thermometer, by which the temperature of the scalding water can be kept at from 145 to 150 degrees. The use of this instrument avoids "setting" the hair on the animals.

Next Week In The Kitchen

Honey

Honey is an energy food which is quickly absorbed and utilized by the body. The flavor of honey varies with the kind of flowers visited by the bees. The lighter the color of the honey usually the more mild the flavor. Flavor of honey is not necessarily a test of quality since flavor is usually a matter of personal preference which is usually a matter of the flavor to which one has been accustomed. In Missouri the darker stronger honey is used in gingerbread, spice cookies, or fruit cakes while the lighter mild flavored honey is for table use, and for custards, plain cakes, and other mildly flavored foods.

Extracted or liquid honey is the most economical form for use in quantity. It is available on the market in both glass and tin containers ranging in size from 1 pound to 5, 10, and 60 pounds.

Honey will keep almost indefinitely if properly stored in a warm, dry place above the temperature remains above 70 degrees Fahrenheit. If stored in a damp place it may absorb enough moisture to cause fermentation. Temperatures as low as freezing do not injure the color or flavor, but such temperatures may hasten granulation. Honey is one food that should not be placed in the refrigerator. It will keep better at room temperature.

Should honey granulate it may be used as a spread or in baking, since granulation does not cause any undesirable effects, but most people prefer the liquid form. To change granulated honey back to the liquid state, merely place the container in the top of a double boiler or set the container on a braise bottom in warm water until all the crystals have melted. The heating should be a slow process as heating above 140 degrees Fahrenheit will harm both the flavor and the color of the honey.

Cooking With Sorghum

Fresh sorghum and hot biscuits are a favorite dish of long standing. Sorghum is one of the popular energy foods and it contains a goodly portion of iron and calcium, while white sugar supplies only energy. When using sorghum in place of sugar in baking, 1/2 teaspoon of soda is added for each cup of sorghum. Since sorghum is liquid it is necessary to reduce the liquid in the recipe 1/4 cup for each cup of sorghum used. There is some difference also in baking foods which contain sorghum.

One housewife writes: "I have been using more sorghum in cooking lately, and I've been having a good deal of trouble scorching my cakes and cookies, gingerbread, and even sorghum waffles. I use the same temperature I've always used for baking other cakes and cookies so I can't understand why my foods burn."

This woman's difficulty was due to the fact that sorghum and molasses burn easily so the temperature for baking gingerbread, or other sorghum mixtures should be lower than the temperature for baking mixtures made with sugar. The same rule holds in baking waffles. The waffle iron needs to be a little cooler for gingerbread or sorghum waffles than for plain waffles. It is advisable to use a moderate oven—350 degrees Fahrenheit—for baking gingerbread in shallow pans, and only 400 degrees Fahrenheit for baking gingerbread in muffin pans.

Do Not Waste Meat

Meat is one of the more expensive foods to produce and practically everyone likes meat. It is surprising, however, to note how much good meat goes back to the kitchen on the dinner plate. With a good steak as much as one-half or one-third of it sometimes is left on the plate after the diner is satisfied. The serving should have been cut differently. Use should be made, also, of the fat and other portions which often are wasted. All bits of left-over meat, the bones from the roast, and the fat trimmings should be used and not wasted.

Meat is sometimes wasted because people do not recognize that

Rural Life Problems

Many people, no doubt, have thought of their responsibility toward sharing the meat when they were planning for their Thanksgiving guests. As usual, the turkey perhaps was the main dish on many tables, however, in many cases this probably was done in an effort to really share the meat since poultry is not included in the list of meats which America is to keep down to 2 1/2 pounds per person per week. This is not only one way of being patriotic, but eating turkey is also one way of being happy.

The next problem after share the meat by using turkey or other poultry is how to use the left-overs so as not to waste any meat. Creamed turkey over left-over mashed potatoes makes a tasty dish as well as does making a layer of dressing in a baking dish and punching down into it the pieces of meat which have been removed from the bones. This can be warmed in the oven for 30 minutes and served on a busy day following Thanksgiving. Tasty salads can also be made by using small particles of meat taken from the bones and mixed with hard cooked eggs, bits of onion, and with shredded cabbage, parsley, and endive.

It is a very perishable product. Ground meat and meat organs are more perishable than meat in larger pieces. All meat fresh or cooked should be kept in the coldest part of the refrigerator. The uncooked meat should be left uncovered or loosely covered. When home slaughtering of meat is done, up-to-date directions for curing and canning meat should be followed. Nearly every year someone loses a ham or shoulder of meat because the meat did not cure properly. Every precaution should be taken to avoid this loss.

Five Ways to Serve Cabbage

Cabbage is one of our stored vegetables for winter use, or if purchased it is an inexpensive vegetable but full of food value. Cabbage to be at its best is served raw, or cooked just a few minutes. Cabbage that is cooked until it turns brown has little food value and wins no new friends for the product. There are many ways to serve cabbage besides boiling.

To prepare five-minute cabbage, chop the cabbage fine immediately before cooking it, and cook it uncovered in milk for 5 to 8 minutes. It must be cooked over low heat so the milk will not scorch. If cooked in this way, the cabbage still has some of the crisp texture of the raw cabbage and most of the vitamin content. The milk gives extra flavor and food value.

One tart apple of good size, peeled, cored, and sliced, and cooked with 1/2 lb. of chopped cabbage makes an interesting cabbage dish. A rather sour apple is particularly good with red cabbage and helps to keep the color bright, but you can use it with any kind of cabbage.

Serve 'au gratin' cabbage sometimes. To make this, use alternate layers of chopped cabbage, which has been cooked for a few minutes, and cheese sauce topped with butter crumbs in a casserole. Bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes or until the crumbs are browned.

Panning is another good way of preparing cabbage. Chop the cabbage, put a little fat into a flat heavy pan—just enough fat to keep the vegetable from sticking—add the cabbage, and cover. Cook over a low heat for about 5 to 10 minutes. For extra flavor you can add some crisp bits of salt pork, bacon, or ham.

Two salad suggestions are: cabbage, apple, and raisin salad; and cabbage, carrot and nut salad.

Students Furnish Food For Needy

Remembering those less fortunate than themselves students of Smith-Cotton high school volunteered to prepare Thanksgiving baskets for a number of families, whose names they obtained from Miss Bettye Field, school nurse.

Each home room prepared a basket. There are twenty-seven home rooms, therefore twenty-seven baskets, and in addition the junior and senior council each filled one, making a total of twenty-nine. Each basket contained a chicken and food that will not only supply a Thanksgiving dinner, but will mean additional food for other meals.

The baskets were delivered in trucks furnished by the city, and aiding in the delivery were Cecil Glenn, trustee officer, and the following students: Kenneth Lutgen, Virgil Landers and Cecil Swift.

Miss Edna Snell, faculty member, sponsored the activity.

Papers Helpful For Farmers

"The influence local newspapers have in assisting farmers with the solution of their problems is tremendous," said Dean M. F. Miller of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture before a meeting of the Missouri Press Association at St. Louis recently. "Moreover, with the increasing difficulties of transportation, thus increasing the difficulties of holding meetings and conferences for educational purposes, the influence of the press may greatly increase."

"The College of Agriculture is making an all-out effort to carry to the farmers of Missouri the best and the most economical methods of production so that they may meet their production goals. Naturally, the College works through every possible agency in reaching farm people. It works through direct contact of members of its staff, both at Columbia and throughout the state. It uses printed circulars and bulletins in abundance. It relies on the radio and the press. We realize at this time the outstanding service which the press is rendering and may render in the future."

"I realize fully the great pressure now placed upon the rural press to carry almost unlimited masses of wartime material, quantities that are many times greater than could be used even if the entire space were available."

Moreover, I realize that regardless of the fine public spirit of most rural editors, these papers must at least pay some financial returns. In this connection I wish to pay tribute to the fine attitude of rural editors regarding community enterprises. In most of their communities these men are outstanding local leaders, very much interested in the highest type of public service. During these war times they may be super leaders, giving great service to the country."

Cereals Cooked Thoroughly Best

All cereals need to be thoroughly cooked to be at their best, says Extension Circular 481 — Using Whole Grains in Family Meals—just issued by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture. If the grain has not been broken or cracked, several hours of cooking are needed to give a palatable procedure.

If the grains are cracked, ground, or in a flake form they need to be cooked only 20 minutes or less to break down the cellulose, cook the starch, and make them easy to digest. Most persons, however, much prefer the flavor of cereals that have been cooked a longer time. The fineness of the grind of the cereal is more important from the nutritional standpoint than the length of time it is cooked.

Whole, skim, or evaporated milk may be used for all or a part of the liquid in cooking any cereal. For a given amount of cereal a little more milk than water is required. If dry or powdered milk is used, combine it with dry with the dry cereal, about 1/4 to 1 cup of cereal, and cook with water, increasing the amount of water slightly. Cereal cooked in milk tastes different than cereal cooked in water. From 3/4 to 1 cup of additional milk for each serving of cereal may be added to the diet in this way.

Finely-ground cereals require more liquid to cook than do flakes or coarsely-ground cereals. Two cups of liquid are sufficient for 1 cup of rolled oats, while 3 cups are needed for 1 cup of cracked wheat, and 4 cups for 1 cup of finely-ground cereal.

Well cooked cereal pours when fresh-cooked, does not flatten out or seek its own level but retains a mound shape as it cools. It is not pasty, but each granule or flake retains its individual form and yet is a part of the whole. It is cooked long enough to really cook the starch, bring out the natural nutty flavor of the grain from which it is made, and has just the right amount of salt.

Commend On Production Of Foodstuffs

President Of The University In Praise Of Farmers

Congratulations to the farm people of Missouri on their magnificent achievement in food production in 1942 are expressed by Dr. Frederick A. Middlebush, President of the University of Missouri. At the same time he voiced concern over the difficult problems of labor, machinery, and transportation confronting farmers for 1943, and pledged the full cooperation of the University if meeting these problems.

President Middlebush's statement is in complete accord with a recent resolution adopted by the executive committee of the American Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities and made public by the president of the association and the chairman of the committee, Dr. Edmund Ezra Day of Cornell University and Dr. T. O. Walton of Texas A. and M. College.

Day and Walton pointed out that the production of food crops and livestock products in 1942 was the largest in the history of American farming and that agriculture had met its obligations to the war effort fully and completely, adding:

"For this wonderful success much credit must be given not only to men and boys who often worked the equivalent of a 70 or 80 hour week but also to the farm wives who labored long hours in the fields and barns in addition to caring for the homes and the families."

Emphasizes Difficulties

At the same time, Day and Walton emphasized the difficulties in maintaining farm production in 1943 with a greatly increased shortage of labor, the threat of shortages in farm equipment, and the ever present possibility of droughts and other unfavorable weather.

Looking to the next crop year, they said:

"The world's food supply, particularly the supply of food for this nation and its allies, is rapidly becoming one of the most important problems of the war."

"The nation's success in dealing with this problem will largely depend upon skill and realism in applying to its solution the experience of practical farmers and the accumulated results of agricultural scientist shall we be able to make the adjustments which are necessary for maximum production of food and fiber in the face of ever-mounting shortage of manpower, an insufficient supply of farm machinery, diminishing transportation, and the unavailability of many plant foods and spray materials on which the agriculture of the country has depended in the past."

"It becomes the mission of Land-Grant Colleges in their research and through their extension services to work more closely with practical farmers than ever before. It is their job to foresee as far as possible the adjustments which are ahead. It is their job to interpret fearlessly to the public and to those Bureaus of the Government which have to do with food supply, the true conditions under which food and fiber production is going forward."

"Only by such authentic representations are we likely to secure the adoption of those national policies which will protect our food supply."

Miss Wissmann To 4-H Club Congress

Miss Anna Wissman of the Flat Creek Young America At Work 4-H club will leave Saturday for a five days' trip to Chicago to the National 4-H Club Congress. This award comes as recognition of her work in food preparation and in 4-H club work in general. She will represent Missouri in the national contest for which the award is $200 scholarship to each winner in six districts of the United States. While there, the Missouri delegation of twenty boys and girls and their chaperon will be guests of various organizations of the city of Chicago.
